

THE DAILY CLARION.

TELL ME YOU LOVE ME.

There are moments in life when a feeling is That fills us and thrills us with exquisite bliss.
When our pathway is brilliant with sunshine and flowers and Eden of bright happiness.
Such a moment was mine as I caught thy refrain.
"Tell me you love me, again and again."

I will tell thee I love thee, though often before
I have whispered the vow that you bid me repeat.
For the vows that I pledge and the passions I pour.
In their fond iteration, grow daily more sweet.
Then why from the tender confession refrain.
Nor tell thee I love thee again and again?

I will tell thee I love thee, nor seek to deceive
The heart that confides in and clings to my fate.
Though oft'er my follies thy spirit may grieve.
And thy passionate love may be turned to hate—I'll repeat the sweet words, nor their fondness will feign.
When I tell thee I love thee, again and again

Cholera Remedy.

After treating it for fifteen years, in probably a thousand cases, we suggest to our readers to at once procure from the druggist the following simple mixture: Laudanum, 2 ounces; spirits of capsicum, 1/2 oz.; tincture of ginger, 1/2 oz.; essence of peppermint, 2 oz.; Hoffman's anodyne, 2 oz. If the anodyne cannot readily be obtained, substitute sulphuric ether—half the quantity.

Mix thoroughly and shake well every time it is used. Give or take from ten to twenty-five drops, according to age, condition or violence of the attack. Repeat every twenty minutes until relief is obtained. In a desperate case take a teaspoonful at once.
Take it in an equal quantity of water, and lie on the back quietly, or in an easy sitting posture with the back supported, till it has full opportunity to work. Carry a small tial in the pocket, with a few lumps of white sugar upon which to drop it, to be used in sudden emergencies.

DISEASE PRODUCED BY SLEEPING TO-GETHER.—During the night there is considerable exhalation from our bodies, and at the same time we absorb a large quantity of the vapors of the surrounding air. Two healthy young children sleeping together will naturally give and receive healthy exhalations, but an old weak person near a child will, in exchange for health, only return weakness. A sick mother near her daughter communicates sickly emanations to her; if the mother has a cough of long duration, the daughter will at some time cough and suffer by it; if the pulmonary consumption, it will be ultimately communicated to her child. It is known that the bed of a consumptive is a powerful and sure source of contagion as well for men as for women, and the more so for young persons. Parents and friends ought to oppose as much as is in their power, the sleeping together of old and young persons, of the sick and of the healthy. Another reason ought to forbid every mother or nurse keeping small children with them in bed; notwithstanding the advice of prudence, no year-passes that we do not hear of a new voluntary infanticide. A baby full of life and health and vigor in the evening is found dead the next morning, suffocated by its parents or nurse.

The Sick Chamber.

The New York Tint. Field and Farm has the following timely and sensible reflections under the above heading:
"This is the season of contagious diseases, a remark of caution to those sitting sick rooms may not be out of place. It is a simple matter to preserve health when we understand the principles of nature. In these days, many of us, when called to visit a sick friend, are apt to rush to the chamber with imprudent haste, consequently enter it a violent respiration. This should be particularly avoided, for if the body is heated when you enter the room filled with the wholesome odors of disease, the patient it becomes cold it is most likely to absorb the infection, thus contributing to the spread of the contagion.
Prudence when you visit the sick chamber, and enter it only when the system, mental and physical, is in a healthy state. A person laboring under any contagious complaint, should be visited with an empty stomach, and such times there is an exhaustion of the physical nature, which contributes to the more ready absorption of disease. If you stand between a diseased person, the danger is that under other of the fire dancing system, from concentration, the disease is more easily imprinted with these directions are simple, and observance may prove highly valuable to those who are apt to act impudently, because they give but any thought to the question nearly affects them."
